-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 01 June 0205.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/2/05 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chen et al.

Chen et al. teaches a comprehensive system for producing and distributing on-demand presentations over a network (column 1; lines 19-20). Chen et al. teaches that elements of the presentation invention are included within a client-server system in which one or more presentation servers communicate with one or more clients. The clients transmit and receive data from the presentation servers over a variety of communication channel including local area networks or the Internet (column 2; lines 40-55) (The clients of Chen et al. represent the presenter and the reader; the presentation servers represents the presentation material publishing server which is accessed by the clients/presenter/reader via a network).

Chen et al. teaches implementing various types of business methods using the presentation system. In particular organizations may pay a one-time fee for the service and then end users or employees would not be charged to view the presentations. In another embodiment taught by Chen et al. end users would access the presentation on a pay-per-view basis (column 6; line 53 – column 7; line 20) (performing a credit process prior to uploading presentation material). Chen et al. teaches charging a fee to view over a specified period (column 7 ; lines 5-6)(public information contains publication period). Chen et al. further teaches maintaining a searchable database of on-demand presentations on the presentation server, in which stored presentations are categorized in an index, allowing users to search for a presentation on a particular topic (column 5; lines 22-30).

Chen et al. teaches an example of a user purchasing the right to view a particular presentation that identification information is stored on the computer in the form of a token or cookie (column 7; lines 42-53). Examiner notes that this corresponds to a membership registration means for registering for authorized access to presentation material publishing server.

Examiner notes that it is inherent to the system of Chen et al. that public information (defined by applicant on page 25; paragraph 2 of the specification as the presentation time of the materials, category information and downloading permission information”) be collected, as it is necessarily required to collect this information (such as category or permission data) in order to know how to charge the user to view the presentation and to allow the user to search by category.

Art Unit: 3627

(User registration of a presenter is performed; public information contains at least category or browsing permissions). Additionally, Examiner notes that it is inherent and necessarily present in the invention of Chen et al. that the target address is notified to the presenter/client only after uploading is permitted, as it would make no sense to provide that address if the uploading were not permitted.

Chen further teaches different embodiments in which the users of the system pay fees for downloading (column 6; line 53 – column 7; line 6). Examiner notes specifically that a percentage of a fee paid for downloading paid to the content owner and the ODPO represents a download condition that is enter or negotiated by the content owner or presenter.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6/2/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant asserts that nothing has been found in Chen that would disclose or suggest a presentation material publishing server for storing public information and presentation materials, determining a presentation cost as a function of said public information, and permitting access to said public information, as recited in independent claim 1.

Examiner respectfully disagrees. Examiner notes that Applicant finds support of the newly amended limitation in the specification starting on page 25, 2nd paragraph, which is continued onto page 26. Specifically:

In the public information registration section 412, public information, such as presentation material publishing conditions, which are made public by the presentation material publishing services according to this embodiment, is registered. The public information contains, for example, the presentation time of presentation materials, category information of presentation materials, and downloading permission information of a reader. The presentation material publishing server 400 determines the presentation cost based on these pieces of public information, makes them public, and permits the downloading by the reader 200.

Examiner points to Chen column 6, line 61 through column 7, line 6, specifically, "Users in this embodiment may pay a subscription fee for the right to view any presentation (or any presentations within a particular classification) hosted on the presentation server(s)." Examiner notes that paying a subscription fee based on a particular classification clearly represents determining a presentation cost as a function of said public information.
